

Debt Collection Agency Fees Starting at $200

Insurance Company Denial of Claim

In the event that a client's insurance company denies their claim for counseling, the client is still responsible to pay their counseling fees out-of-pocket as soon as the client is notified that their insurance claim has been denied.

If a client accrues an outstanding balance by not paying for sessions that their insurance company has denied, an independent Debt Collection Agency is hired to collect the outstanding debt.

Clients will be required to pay their outstanding debt, plus the Debt Collection Agency fees which start at $200 and will increase depending on the size of the debt.

Client Non Payment of Co Pays, Sessions Fees and Cancellation Fees

In the event that a client accrues an outstanding balance by not paying co pays, counseling sessions, and cancellation fees, an independent Debt Collection Agency is hired to collect the outstanding debt.

Clients will be required to pay their outstanding debt, plus the Debt Collection Agency fees which start at $200 and more depending on the size of the client's debt.

I understand that if I accrue an outstanding balance, a Debt Collection Agency will be hired to collect my debt. I am required to pay the Debt Collection Agency in addition to my outstanding dept.
